- (a) Locate roughly where these languages are spoken in the world map on the last page.
- (b) Try to group the languages into various groups (and if necessary, sub-groups) based on their similarities and differences. Which languages are very close?
- (c) Was there consensus in the classification? What is contentious? What additional information would have been helpful to help you in the classification?
- (d) Were there any problems in interpreting the Latin script? What do we need to be careful about?
- (e) Can you see a correlation between the groups that you mentioned and the geographical locations of the languages? How can you account for this?

- (f) Look up a book on the Indo-European languages and the various branches of that family of languages (eg Barber Ch. 3, or go to http://www.krysstal.com/langfams_indoeuro.html) and draw this as a diagram.
