

Handbook of Research on Asian Business

Handbook of Research on Asian Business

Edited by

Henry Wai-chung Yeung

Professor of Economic Geography, National University of Singapore

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

© Henry Wai-chung Yeung 2006

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical or photocopying, recording, or otherwise without the prior permission of the publisher.

Published by Edward Elgar Publishing Limited
Glensanda House
Montpellier Parade
Cheltenham
Glos GL50 1UA
UK

Edward Elgar Publishing, Inc.
136 West Street
Suite 202
Northampton
Massachusetts 01060
USA

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloguing in Publication Data

Handbook of research of Asian business / edited by Henry Wai-chung Yeung.

p. cm. — (Elgar original reference)

Includes bibliographical references and index.

1. Asia—Commerce. 2. Asia—Economic integration. 3. International trade.

4. Asia—Foreign economic relations. I. Yeung, Henry Wai-chung. II. Series.

HF3752.3.H36 2006

338.095—dc22

2006008421

ISBN-13: 978 1 84376 960 6

ISBN-10: 1 84376 960 3

Printed and bound in Great Britain by MPG Books Ltd, Bodmin, Cornwall

Contents

| | |
|---|------------|
| List of figures | vii |
| List of tables | viii |
| Notes on contributors | x |
| Acknowledgments | xviii |
| 1 Unpacking the business of Asian business Henry Wai-chung Yeung | 1 |
| PART I BUSINESS STRATEGY AND ORGANIZATION | 17 |
| 2 Strategy research in Asia Andrew Delios, Wei Wei Xu and Kulwant Singh | 19 |
| 3 Towards an institution-based view of business strategy in Asia Mike W. Peng | 46 |
| 4 Guanxi as the Chinese norm for personalized social capital: toward an integrated duality framework or informal exchange Peter Ping Li | 62 |
| 5 Transferring knowledge to enterprises in China Eric Tsang | 84 |
| 6 Business organizations in China Doug Guthrie and Junmin Wang | 99 |
| PART II BUSINESS AND MARKETING | 123 |
| 7 Challenges of marketing to Asian consumers: exploring the influence of different cultures, life styles and values on consumer behaviour in Asia Piyush Sharma, Cindy M. Y. Chung, M. Krishna Erramilli and Bharadhwaj Sivakumaran | 125 |
| 8 Marketing practice 'crossvergence' in post-crisis Asia: an illustrative case analysis Tim G. Andrews | 144 |
| 9 Entry and marketing strategies of FDI firms in China Tung-lung (Steven) Chang | 162 |
| 10 China marketing Ying Ho and Kam-hon Lee | 182 |
| 11 Global retailers and Asian manufacturers Gary G. Hamilton and Misha Petrovic | 208 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| PART III BUSINESS–STATE RELATIONS | 221 |
| 12 The state and transnational capital in adaptive partnership: Singapore, South Korea and Taiwan Christopher M. Dent | 223 |
| 13 Capital's search for order: foreign direct investment, models and hybrid models of social order in Southeast Asia Nick Phelps | 250 |
| 14 Government policies towards FDI across East and Southeast Asia: move towards business policies encouraging inter-firm relationships between MNEs and local firms Axèle Giroud | 266 |
| 15 Change and continuity in business organization: the roles of the state and regional ethnicity in Singapore Lai Si Tsui-Auch | 285 |
| 16 How Taiwan built an electronics industry: lessons for developing countries today John A. Mathews | 307 |
| PART IV BUSINESS, DEVELOPMENT AND POLICY ISSUES | 333 |
| 17 Cultural considerations of business and economic development in East Asia F. Gerard Adams and Heidi Vernon | 335 |
| 18 The dynamics of Southeast Asian Chinese business Henry Wai-chung Yeung | 356 |
| 19 Innovation policies for Asian SMEs: an innovation system perspective Cristina Chaminade and Jan Vang | 381 |
| 20 Explaining multinational companies from the developing economies of East and Southeast Asia Paz Estrella Tolentino | 409 |
| 21 Explaining the emergence of Thai multinationals Pavida Pananond | 428 |
| 22 Corporate China goes global Friedrich Wu | 445 |
| Index | 467 |

Figures

| | | |
|-------|---|-----|
| 3.1 | Institutions, organizations, and strategic choices | 48 |
| 6.1 | Various organizational types in China, 2001 | 101 |
| 6.2 | Changing numbers of employees by sector, 1978–2001 | 101 |
| 6.3 | Percentages of firms in Shanghai institutionalizing formal labour reforms, 1995 | 110 |
| 7.1 | Understanding Asian consumers: a conceptual framework | 139 |
| 10.1 | The customer–salesman dyad | 183 |
| 15.1 | An integrated institutional framework | 301 |
| 16.1 | The growth and development of Taiwan, 1951–2000 | 309 |
| 16.2 | Manufacturing as the engine of growth in Taiwan | 311 |
| 16.3 | Electronics industry as the engine of manufacturing in Taiwan | 313 |
| 16.4a | Developing regions: world market shares of medium- and high-tech manufacturing value-added, 1980–2000 | 313 |
| 16.4b | Taiwan electronics production, 1986–98 | 314 |
| 16.5 | Revealed comparative advantage (RCA) in Taiwan's electronics trade, 1976–2002 | 316 |
| 16.6 | East Asian exports of electronics: flying geese patterns | 317 |
| 16.7 | Imports of CTVs into the US market, 1971–81 | 318 |
| 16.8 | National systems of economic learning in East Asia | 326 |
| 17.1 | The development ladder | 338 |
| 17.2 | The stages of the product cycle process | 338 |
| 22.1 | Regional distribution of Chinese outward FDI in value terms | 448 |
| 22.2 | Motivations of outward FDI from survey of China's 'Top 50 industry leading firms' | 449 |

Tables

| | | |
|------|--|-----|
| 2.1 | Product diversification: recent literature and findings in Asia (1995–2004) | 37 |
| 2.2 | Geographic diversification (Asian Multinationals): recent literature and findings (1995–2004) (Japan excluded) | 42 |
| 6.1 | Comparison of state-owned and foreign-funded firms | 104 |
| 7.1 | Empirical studies of Asian consumer segmentation | 127 |
| 7.2 | Empirical studies of consumer decision-making styles | 136 |
| 9.1 | Profile of the sample FDI firms | 166 |
| 9.2 | Logit regression on export orientation of all FDI firms | 167 |
| 9.3 | Logit regression on export orientation of IJV firms | 167 |
| 9.4 | OLS multiple regression on export intensity of FDI firms | 169 |
| 9.5 | Logit regression on wholly-owned, domestic-oriented FDI firms | 171 |
| 9.6 | Profiles of Taiwanese firms' entry into China | 172 |
| 10.1 | Categorization by research topic and approach | 184 |
| 10.2 | Marketing Journals | 205 |
| 10.3 | Management Journals | 205 |
| 10.4 | Moderating variables | 206 |
| 12.1 | Summary profile of selected Singaporean foreign industrial parks (FIPs) | 231 |
| 14.1 | Linkages between foreign affiliates and local enterprises and organizations in host economies | 270 |
| 14.2 | Mixed technology strategies towards inter-firm linkages | 272 |
| 14.3 | East Asia economic growth (per cent) | 273 |
| 14.4 | FDI flows before and after the Asian crisis (millions of dollars) | 274 |
| 14.5 | Key foreign investment agencies | 275 |
| 14.6 | Starting a business in East and Southeast Asian countries | 275 |
| 14.7 | FDI programmes and incentives in Singapore | 279 |
| 15.1 | Large Singaporean listed companies | 291 |
| 15.2 | Indicators of the intra-communal homogeneity among subgroups | 299 |
| 16.1 | Taiwan's export performance in electronics, 1976–2001 | 315 |
| 16.2 | Country statistics: averages for 5-year and 30-year periods (utility patent only) | 322 |
| 16.3 | Patent numbers of top patenting firms and institutions: Taiwan, South Korea, Singapore, China, 1997–2001 | 323 |
| 17.1 | East Asian economic growth (per cent per year) | 336 |
| 17.2 | East Asian per capita income, 2002, in US dollars per capita | 336 |
| 17.3 | Other country characteristics (2002) | 337 |
| 17.4 | Indexes of cultural characteristics | 346 |
| 17.5 | Survey of personal objectives | 348 |
| 17.6 | Survey of social values | 349 |
| 17.7 | Survey of business practices | 351 |

Tables

ix

| | | |
|------|--|-----|
| 18.1 | Major ethnic Chinese and their transnational corporations from East and Southeast Asia, 1997–2003 | 358 |
| 18.2 | The inward FDI performance index, 1988–90 and 1998–2000, for selected Asian countries and the US | 362 |
| 18.3 | Exchange rates per US dollar and real GDP growth rates of Southeast Asian economies, 1991–2002 | 363 |
| 18.4 | Leading Chinese business firms among the top 50 transnational corporations from Southeast Asia ranked by foreign assets, 1995 and 2000 | 364 |
| 19.1 | Main clusters of SMEs in Asia | 386 |
| 19.2 | Comparison of the Asian cases | 390 |
| 22.1 | China's outward FDI flows in comparative perspective (in US$ billion) | 446 |
| 22.2 | China's outward FDI stock in comparative perspective (in US$ billion) | 446 |
| 22.3 | Geographical distribution of Chinese enterprises abroad | 447 |
| 22.4 | 15 Chinese enterprises on the Fortune Global 500 | 451 |
| 22.5 | Number of enterprises on the Fortune Global 500 from emerging economies and developed economies | 452 |
| 22.6 | Recent actual and proposed overseas acquisitions by Chinese firms | 453 |
| 22.7 | China's consumption of world commodities as shares of world total | 463 |
| 22.8 | UNCTAD's list of the twelve largest transnational corporations from China, 2002 | 464 |
| 22.9 | Chinese enterprises on BusinessWeek's 'Top 200 Emerging-Market Companies', 2003 | 465 |

Notes on contributors

F. Gerard Adams (PhD, University of Michigan, USA) is Visiting Professor in the College of Business Administration at Northeastern University in Boston. He moved there in 2001 after many years in Philadelphia at the University of Pennsylvania. He is married to Heidi Vernon. After receiving his PhD in 1956, he was a business economist in the petroleum industry and served in government at the CEA in Washington and at the OECD in Paris. He spent 36 years at the University of Pennsylvania, where he was professor of economics. In addition to his teaching, he was involved in academic governance, as head of the Faculty Senate, and in business consulting and forecasting. He has taught abroad frequently as a visiting professor at the Sasin Graduate Institute of Business Administration of Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok and the Johns Hopkins Center in Nanjing, China. Adams' research interests have ranged widely. He has worked on a broad range of empirical studies including models of nations, regions, commodity markets, energy, industries, firms and the linkages between these models. His recent research has focused on the economics of development and crisis in East Asia. He is author of numerous articles and a number of books, among them Industrial Policies for Growth and Competitiveness, Export Instability and Economic Growth, Stabilizing World Commodity Markets, The Business Forecasting Revolution, The Macroeconomic Dimensions of Arms Reduction, Economic Activity, Trade and Industry in the US–Japan–World Economy, East Asian Development: Will the East Asian Growth Miracle Survive?, Public Policies in East Asian Development: Facing New Challenges, E-Business and the New Economy, East Asia, Globalization, and the New Economy (forthcoming).

Tim G. Andrews (PhD, Brunel University, UK) is Reader in International Management at Bristol Business School, University of the West of England. He has published a series of conceptual and empirical articles examining cross-cultural issues pertaining to the management of Western MNCs in Southeast Asia. Recent articles have appeared in the Asia Pacific Journal of Management, Journal of International Business and Asia Pacific Business Review. He is the co-author of Multinationals in Southeast Asia and co-editor of the Working in Asia book series. Current research within the region explores the impact of cultural variance on the intracorporate implementation of electronic communication programmes in Thailand.

Cristina Chaminade (PhD, Autonomous University of Madrid, Spain) is Assistant Professor in Innovation Studies at the Centre for Innovation, Research and Competence in the Learning Economy (CIRCLE), Lund University (Sweden) and Visiting Professor at the HHL Leipzig School of Business (Germany). Her doctoral thesis was awarded Best Thesis in Economics (UAM). Before joining CIRCLE, she worked at the UAM researching on innovation policy for small firms. Between 1997 and 2003, she was the Spanish delegate in the OECD Work Groups on National Systems of Innovation, and on Innovative Clusters and International Scientific Co-operation (Global Science Forum). She has been Head of the Innovation Unit of the Spanish Entrepreneurial Association of Electronic and Telecommunication Industries (ANIEL). Her research focuses mainly on innovation policy, particularly how to promote innovation and knowledge creation in different industries and firms, with a special interest in developing regions.

Tung-lung (Steven) Chang (PhD, George Washington University, USA) is Professor of Marketing and International Business at the College of Management, Long Island University, C.W. Post campus. He has taught MBA classes at the headquarters of Northrop Grumman, Olympus, Symbol Technologies and Verizon. Dr Chang has centred his research on the global expansion and marketing strategy of multinational corporations. His research has been published by Journal of World Business, International Marketing Review, Journal of Global Marketing, Competitiveness Review and International Finance Review, among others. Dr Chang is the recipient of Keller Grants, a United Nations Development Program Grant, and a National Science Foundation grant. He previously served as a member of the New Jersey State Export Finance Company's Advisory Council.

Cindy M.Y. Chung (PhD, University of British Columbia, Canada) is Assistant Professor at the Marketing and International Business Division in the Nanyang Business School at the Nanyang Technological University. She obtained her doctorate in Marketing. Her research interest is in the area of consumer behaviour, specifically relating to consumer word-of-mouth, the price-quality relationship, and cross-cultural consumption issues. She teaches consumer behaviour at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Andrew Delios (PhD, Richard Ivey School of Business, Canada) is Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Business Policy, NUS Business School, the National University of Singapore. He is the author or co-author of more than 50 published journal articles, case studies and book chapters. His articles have appeared in such journals as the Academy of Management Journal, Administrative Science Quarterly, Strategic Management Journal, Strategic Organization! and Journal of International Business Studies. He has authored five books, including International Business: An Asia-Pacific Perspective and Strategy for Success in Asia. He has written case studies and conducted research on companies involved in Canada, China, India, Italy, Hong Kong, Japan, Singapore and Vietnam. His research looks at foreign investment issues in emerging economies, particularly by Japanese multinationals, and the governance, strategy and performance of China's listed companies.

Christopher M. Dent (PhD, University of Hull, UK) is Senior Lecturer in the East Asian Economy in the Department of East Asian Studies at the University of Leeds, UK. His research interests centre on the international political economy of East Asia and the Asia-Pacific. He is more specifically interested in new trade policy developments in the Asia-Pacific; the foreign economic policies of Singapore, South Korea and Taiwan; East Asian developing countries, multilateralism and globalization; East Asia's economic relations with the European Union; theories of international economic security; and theories of regionalism. Published books include Asia-Pacific Economic and Security Co-operation (editor, 2003); The Foreign Economic Policies of Singapore, South Korea and Taiwan (2002); Northeast Asian Regionalism: Learning from the European Experience (co-editor, 2002); The European Union and East Asia: An Economic Relationship (1999); The European Economy: The Global Context (1997). Christopher Dent is also author of over 40 academic articles and papers, and is currently writing a book on the recent proliferation of free trade agreement (FTA) projects in the Asia–Pacific.

M. Krishna Erramilli (PhD, University of Arkansas, USA) is Vice-Dean, Office of Executive Education at the Nanyang Business School, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. He taught in the US for many years before joining NTU, where he also headed the Marketing and International Business Division. He has published in top journals, including Journal of Marketing and Journal of International Business Studies, in addition to presenting papers at numerous international conferences. His research interests are in international market entry strategy, international business theory and international competitive advantage.

Axèle Giroud (PhD, University of Bradford, UK) is Senior Lecturer in International Business at Bradford University School of Management. She has previously worked in the University of Paris I, Panthéon-Sorbonne. She has conducted several research projects on Asian and multinational firms' activities in the region. She is interested in issues of knowledge transfer, multinational firms' linkages in host economies and multinational strategies in Asia. She has taken part in several international seminars (notably some organized by the United Nations), and has published articles and book chapters, as well as completing several research reports for major organizations, such as the Japanese Bank for International Cooperation, the British Department for International Development and the ASEAN Secretariat. She recently published Transnationals, Technology and Economic Development (2003) and Multinationals and Asia: Organizational and Institutional Relationships (2005).

Doug Guthrie (PhD, University of California, Berkeley, USA) is Professor of Management and Organization at the Stern School of Business and also holds a joint appointment in the Department of Sociology at New York University. His primary areas of research focus on organizational theory, the impact of corporations on the social sector and the impact of foreign companies in China. He is author of Dragon in a Three-Piece Suit: The Emergence of Capitalism in China (1999) and, more recently, Globalization and China: Multinational Corporations, Local Government, and the Transformation of Chinese Society (2006).

Gary G. Hamilton (PhD, University of Washington, USA) is Professor of Sociology in the Jackson School of International Studies at the University of Washington. He has published numerous books and articles, including most recently Emergent Economies, Divergent Paths: Economic Organization and International Trade in South Korea and Taiwan, with Robert C. Feenstra (2006), Commerce and Capitalism in Chinese Societies (2006), Cosmopolitan Capitalists: Hong Kong and the Chinese Diaspora at the end of the 20th Century, editor and contributor (1999), The Economic Organization of East Asian Capitalism, with Marco Orrù and Nicole Biggart (1997) and Asian Business Networks, editor (1996).

Ying Ho is a PhD student in Marketing at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shatin, Hong Kong. Her research focuses on cross-cultural marketing, service marketing and consumer behaviour. She has published in Journal of International Marketing, Journal of Database Marketing and Consumer Strategy Management, and Cornell HRA Quarterly. She obtained her BBA at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, and her MSc in International Business at the University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology, UK.

Kam-hon Lee (PhD, Northwestern University, USA) is Professor of Marketing at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shatin, Hong Kong. His research areas include business negotiation, cross-cultural marketing, marketing ethics, social marketing and tourism marketing. He has published in Journal of Marketing, Journal of Management, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of International Marketing, Cornell HRA Quarterly, and other refereed journals. He also serves on the editorial boards of various international and regional journals.

Peter Ping Li (PhD, George Washington University, USA) is Professor of Management at California State University, Stanislaus. His primary academic interest lies in the development of holistic, dynamic and dialectical frameworks with regard to the impact of cultural values and dynamic changes on the global strategic management. In particular, his recent research focuses on re-examining the extant theories of international business and strategic management from the cultural and social perspective of China and East Asia, especially the issue of informal networks for business exchanges. Dr Li has published in various academic journals, including Organization Studies, Asia Pacific Journal of Management, Journal of Organizational Change Management, Management & Organizational Review, Journal of Global Information Management, Advances in International Comparative Management, International Executive (currently Thunderbird International Business Review) and Advances in Chinese Industrial Studies, among others.

John A. Mathews (PhD, Imperial College, London, UK) is Professor of Strategic Management at Macquarie Graduate School of Management, Macquarie University in Sydney. He is the author of Tiger Technology: The Creation of a Semiconductor Industry in East Asia, as well as Dragon Multinational: A New Model of Global Growth. He is widely published in the academic literature, most recently with a paper in California Management Review on strategy and the crystal cycle, and in Research Policy on innovative capacity in East Asia. He has worked with UNCTAD, UNIDO and the World Bank. Professor Mathews was a Visiting Scholar at the Rockefeller Foundation Study Center at Bellagio, in Italy, in September 2004.

Pavida Pananond (PhD, University of Reading, UK) is Assistant Professor at the Department of International Business, Logistics and Transport, Thammasat Business School, Thammasat University, Bangkok, Thailand. She has published in ASEAN Economic Bulletin, Asia-Pacific Journal of Management and Journal of Asian Business. Her research interests include post-crisis changes of Thai multinationals, the globalization of Thai management, and the evolution and international expansion of Thai business groups.

Mike W. Peng (PhD, University of Washington, USA) is Provost's Distinguished Professor of Global Strategy at the University of Texas at Dallas. Prior to joining UTD, Dr Peng was an associate professor at the Ohio State University. Professor Peng is widely regarded as one of the most prolific and most influential scholars in global strategy. He has published over 40 journal articles and three books, including, most recently, Global Strategy (2006). He has served on the editorial board of the Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Journal of International Business Studies and Strategic Management Journal. He is currently an editor of the Asia Pacific Journal of Management, and has been appointed as its editor-in-chief for 2007–9.

Misha Petrovic (PhD, University of Washington, USA) is Postdoctoral Research Fellow in the Department of Sociology, University of Washington and serves as a Co-Principal Investigator for the project. He received his MA in sociology and political science from CEU, Prague and the University of Lancaster. His doctoral dissertation deals with the making of global markets for consumer goods. He specializes in economic sociology and globalization studies. He co-authored several articles on global retailing and its impact on the global economy, including 'Making global markets: Wal-Mart and its suppliers', in Wal-Mart: Template for 21st Century Capitalism, edited by Nelson Lichtenstein (2005).

Nick Phelps (PhD, University of Newcastle, UK) is Reader in Economic Geography at the School of Geography, University of Southampton. He is author of Multinationals and European Integration and co-editor of The New Competition for Inward Investment. His research interests are in the geography and economic impacts of multinational companies and foreign direct investment (FDI), the political economy of FDI attraction, and the agglomeration of economic activity.

Piyush Sharma is a Research Associate and final year doctoral candidate in the Marketing and International Business Division of the Nanyang Business School at Nanyang Technological University (NTU), Singapore. Piyush earned his bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering from University of Delhi and MBA in Marketing from Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore in India. He has over 20 years of professional experience in a wide range of industries and has been involved in teaching, research and executive education at NTU. His research interests include hedonic consumer behaviours, international marketing and services marketing.

Kulwant Singh (PhD, University of Michigan, USA) is Associate Professor of Business Policy, NUS Business School, National University of Singapore. He has published more than 40 papers, chapters and cases on issues related to strategy and competition in rapidly changing environments. His papers have appeared in such journals as the Academy of Management Journal, Strategic Management Journal, Organization Science, Industrial and Corporate Change and Journal of Management. He has published three books, including, most recently, Strategy for Success in Asia (2005).

Bharadhwaj Sivakumaran (PhD, University of Maryland, USA) is Assistant Professor at the Department of Management Studies, Indian Institute of Technology, Chennai, India. His research primarily focuses on variety-seeking behaviour, impulse buying behaviour, cross-cultural buying behaviour, and order of entry effects. He has presented numerous papers in all the leading marketing conferences.

Paz Estrella Tolentino (PhD, University of Reading, UK) is Lecturer in International Business at the School of Management and Organizational Psychology, Birkbeck College, University of London. Among her publications is Technological Innovation and Third World Multinationals (1993). The book is based on her PhD dissertation that received the 1989 Academy of International Business Richard N. Farmer Prize for the best PhD thesis on international business.

Eric Tsang (PhD, University of Cambridge, UK) is Associate Professor of Strategic Management at Wayne State University, USA. His research interests include organizational learning, strategic alliances, research methodology and Chinese management issues. He has published widely in leading management journals, such as Academy of Management Executive, Academy of Management Review, Human Relations, Journal of Business Venturing, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Management Studies, Organization Studies and Strategic Management Journal.

Lai Si Tsui-Auch (PhD, Michigan State University, USA) is Associate Professor at the Nanyang Business School, Nanyang Technological University of Singapore. She obtained her BSocSc degree from the University of Hong Kong; her MA degree was in Telecommunications. Prior to joining NTU, she worked as a research scientist at the Technological University of Berlin and Wissenschaft Zentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Germany. Her current research focuses on business groups, trust and distrust in organizations and bureaucratic rationality. Her research has been published in such journals as Organization Studies, Journal of Management Studies, Management Learning, Journal of Asian Business, International Sociology, International Journal of Urban and Regional Research, Development and Change and Gazette. She has also published numerous book chapters, including two that appear in the Handbook of Organizational Learning and Knowledge that won the Terry Book Award at the Academy of Management annual conference in 2002. She is currently a member of the Editorial Board of Organization Studies and of The Qualitative Report, editorial advisor to the Development Bank of Japan Reports.

Jan Vang is Assistant Professor at Copenhagen Institute of Technology, Aalborg University in Copenhagen, Denmark, as well as researcher at CIRCLE at Lund University, Sweden. His research focuses on the globalization of innovation systems, with special attention to Asia and Scandinavia, and to so-called 'creative industries'. He has written and (co)-edited numerous books, special issues and papers.

Heidi Vernon (PhD, Boston University, USA) is Professor of Management and Director of International Alliances at Northeastern University. She has been Senior Professor at Prasetyia Mulya Graduate School of Management in Indonesia. She is a specialist in strategic and cultural aspects of international business. Professor Vernon is the author of three books: Lowell: The Corporations and the City (1992), Strategic Management in the Global Economy (1997) and Business & Society: A Managerial Approach (1998). She is on editorial and review boards of professional journals and is also the author of numerous articles and papers. She has been a consultant to the World Bank, the United Nations Development Program, and the Harvard Institute for International Development. Professor Vernon has presented papers at numerous conferences around the world, and has done research on the role of women in international business, the role of culture in business, and the issues of international management. She has spent many years traveling, consulting, and teaching in Asia.

Junmin Wang is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Sociology at New York University. She is currently working on a dissertation on the transformation of the tobacco industry in China during the economic reforms.

Dr Friedrich Wu is Adjunct Associate Professor of International Political Economy at the Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. He was a former Director of Economics at the Singapore Ministry of Trade and Industry, and Vice President/Head of Economic Research at the DBS Bank, the largest banking group in Singapore and in Southeast Asia.

Wei Wei Xu is a PhD student in the Business Policy Department of the NUS Business School, National University of Singapore. She received her Masters Degree in Economics at Beijing Normal University. Her research interests include international strategic management and corporate governance in emerging countries. Currently, she is looking at how the ownership structure influences the internationalization patterns of multinational firms in China.

Henry Wai-chung Yeung (PhD, University of Manchester, UK) is Professor of Economic Geography at the Department of Geography, National University of Singapore. He was a recipient of the National University of Singapore Outstanding University Researcher Award (1998), the Institute of British Geographers Economic Geography Research Group Best Published Paper Award (1998), the Commonwealth Fellowship (2002) and the Fulbright Foreign Research Award (2003). His research interests cover, broadly, theories and the geography of transnational corporations, Asian firms and their overseas operations and Chinese business networks in the Asia-Pacific region. Professor Yeung has published widely on transnational corporations from developing countries, in particular Hong Kong, Singapore and other Asian newly industrialized economies. He is the author of three monographs: Transnational Corporations and Business Networks (1998), Entrepreneurship and the Internationalisation of Asian Firms (2002) and Chinese Capitalism in a Global Era (2004). He is also the editor or co-editor of another four books: The Globalisation of Business Firms from Emerging Markets (1999), Globalisation and the Asia Pacific (1999), Globalization of Chinese Business Firms (2000) and Remaking the Global Economy: Economic-Geographical Perspectives (2003). He has over 70 research papers published in internationally refereed journals and 30 chapters in books. He is editor of Environment and Planning A, Economic Geography, and Review of International Political Economy, Asia-Pacific editor of Global Networks, and business manager of Singapore Journal of Tropical Geography. He sits on the editorial boards of eight other international journals, including Asia Pacific Journal of Management, European Urban and Regional Studies and Journal of Economic Geography.

Acknowledgments

When my commissioning editor, Francine O'Sullivan, first asked me two years ago if I would be interested in pursuing this project, I thought the timing was perfect for such a volume, and that the job should not be too daunting precisely because of the paucity of the existing literature on Asian business. In retrospect, I have come to the realization that this is indeed a daunting job that requires enormous energy and persistence to bring it to fruition. In this regard, I want to express my gratitude to the following people and institutions for making this Handbook a reality – something I can be truly proud of.

My contributors, all leading experts in their respective fields, deserve the highest form of appreciation. All 30 contributors graciously accepted my initial invitation to contribute and wrote their chapters in a timely and professional manner that made my editorial role much less painful. While they kindly endured and responded to my specific comments on their chapters (some were harsh and mean), I am very glad that the revised chapters have mostly taken on board the critical issues raised by a 'ruthless' editor. Meanwhile, several individuals should be acknowledged here: Andrew Aeria, Dieter Ernst, Hafiz Mirza and Dennis Tachiki. Because of a variety of unforeseen circumstances, I am unable to include their contributions in this Handbook. However, I would like to thank them for their interest in this project and their continual support.

Moreover, I would like to thank my home institution, the National University of Singapore, for funding a major research project (R-109-000-050-112) of which this Handbook represents a tangible outcome. My research assistant, Angela Leung, has done a superb job in supporting my editorial role in this Handbook project. I am very grateful for her unflinching support, sometimes even from a distance during her holidays at home in Seattle.

My publisher, Edward Elgar, and commissioning editor, Francine O'Sullivan, have been most patient with the progress of this project. I am very grateful for their continual support of my research work in general and their confidence in this Handbook project in particular. The generous financial support from my publisher in securing the relevant copyright permission should also be acknowledged here.

Finally, I must express my greatest gratitude and love for my wife, Weiyu, and daughter, Kay. They have endured this entire project. During the final stage of editing the chapters, our second child, Lucas, was born. Consequently, all three of them had to live with me for weeks when I edited the chapters in my PowerBook right in front of them. For their endless love and great fun, I dedicate this Handbook to them.

Henry Wai-chung Yeung
Singapore
January 2006

